

HISTORY

The Historic Houses Trust has a diverse range of properties in Sydney's CBD and suburbs. Examples of these include Vacluse House, an 1830s sandstone mansion on 10 hectares of picturesque gardens; Rose Seidler House, a 1950s example of modernist architecture, built and decorated by Harry Seidler; and the Justice & Police Museum, which features the Water Police Station, holding cells and Police Court of 1858.

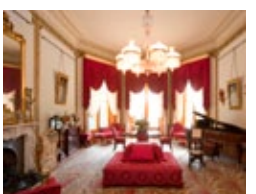

Whether you are searching for modern architect-designed buildings, magnificent colonial architecture, sandstone houses, farm outbuildings, paddocks, picturesque gardens, grand sweeping staircases or a simple garden path, HHT venues have a location to suit your next shoot.

LOCATIONS

HHT venues offer 11 unique and diverse locations to hire for film and photography shoots. We recognise the importance of the film and photography industries and support the use of our properties for television commercials, documentaries, mini-series, feature films, educational films/programs and fashion shoots.

Location managers and directors are encouraged to undertake a site requisition before commencing a shoot to establish a shot list and locations required within a property. In circumstances where this is not possible HHT venues staff can assist with descriptions and images of site locations or recommend properties that may be a suitable option for the production.

AVAILABILITY

Availability for film and photography shoots is dependent upon the respective property's daily business schedule. In assessing the application, consideration will be given to the proposed location of the shoot and what impact it will have on the property.

LOCATION FEES

The location fees outlined are indicative and based on minimal disturbance to the property's collection and environment. A location fee will be confirmed once an overall assessment of the application has been completed and approved.

CONSERVATION

The conservation of the properties is the primary objective for HHT venues at all times. Moving of museum objects or furniture, within the properties, by non-HHT staff is strictly prohibited; however, with advance notice we can work with you to negotiate a positive outcome. Additional fees may apply when furniture is to be moved. An HHT staff member will be appointed to manage all location shoots and requests for the moving of museum objects or furniture must be made through this staff member.

BOND

The HHT reserves the right to charge a $2000 bond in relation to certain location shoots. The bond will be held for seven days after the conclusion of the booking. This is to ensure that the property is left in a satisfactory condition and has not incurred extraordinary cleaning costs, repairs to equipment or damage to the property as a result of the shoot.

PUBLIC LIABILITY INSURANCE

Public liability insurance of not less than $20 million indemnifying the HHT against any claims for damage or injury arising from the activities must be attached to the application form.
